Brief Program Description	New Applicant?
Manhattan Tax Aide is a volunteer-run tax return preparation service absolutely free to low and middle income elderly residents of Manhattan. In 2013 we prepared and efiled over 5,500 federal/state returns and had over 160 volunteers.	No
The Abyssinian Development Corporation Harlem NNORC is designed to provide services and support to Harlem seniors to enable them to maintain independence and successfully age in place. This is accomplished by bringing together a variety of local businesses, community organizations, and elected officials to ensure that services are available to seniors and highlight important issues to be addressed by the community to transform Harlem into an age friendly place.	No
The proposed project aims to expand and enhance our existing wellness activities to accommodate the growing interest and increasing demands of our senior clientele. Our current wellness program is attended by 25+ of our 95 daily congregants, all of whom are 60 years old and above and live in the Washington Heights/Inwood area.	No
A choreography lab is being developed for the seniors of the East Harlem community at the Leonard Covello Senior Center. Utilizing a blend of contemporary modern dance and Latin influenced movement, choreography will be created and taught to approximately 20 senior participants.	Yes
Our Access to Music program continues to bring free classical music performances to the elderly at senior centers, nursing homes, and senior care facilities in New York City, through our Music for the Elderly Series. We provide enriching arts experiences where previously none were offered, and in many cases our musicians help seniors maintain the quality of life.	No

homebound seniors living on the Westside of midtown. This contract transformed the operation of Encore's meal preparation and service delivery systems in terms of dramatically increasing the quantity, quality and choices of meals provided to seniors, in addition to significantly expanding its catchment area.

Our project is Witnessing History: Senior Stories, Student Scribes, which brought high-school students and elderly seniors together to foster inter-generational understanding and literacy skills. Last year, with the support of the Manhattan Community Grants Program, we were able to continue the program and build on its success.

We request the Borough President's funding to maintain and expand the food distribution to seniors as well as the homebound deliveries to seniors, allowing us to increase the interaction between youth and seniors in Washington Heights-Inwood.

Launched in 2011, GHAP is designed to increase GOLES' capacity to provide comprehensive supportive health and social services to seniors, with a dedicated community organizer who engages seniors in program development, addresses their immediate needs, and works to increase their involvement in community issues. Through GHAP, Lower East Side seniors participate in weekly Health and well-being seminars, tax clinics, and workshops on diverse issues, from financial empowerment to environmental justice

The Senior Center Wellness programming stimulates the minds and improves the physical mobility of Greenwich House's senior center members who span ages 60-102 years of age. We view this vibrant wellness program as the foundation that establishes the senior center as the pivotal hub for the community's seniors to engage in self preservation, crucial to maintaining physical and mental health.

Hamilton-Madison House's Senior Services ESL/Citizenship classes continue to be an integral part of the senior curriculum. During the program year, a total of 80 seniors take part in classes which were held at the House's 3 senior centers.

year. Its total funding requested is $13,004, and ISACC will contribute $4,104 in support of this program. There will be two 20-week semesters with 12 students in each class.

The IPR/HE Bilingual Hotline & Emergency Case Assistance Program, established more than 20 years ago, responds to immediate critical needs of Hispanic and other ethnic/racial minority seniors, and their families, which threaten their safety, health and wellbeing, and home security. Seniors and/or family caregivers/companions are able to call or walk-in at various IPR/HE sites around Manhattan and connect with a highly trained culturally and linguistically competent case worker.

James Lenox House residents are all older adults 55+ who live independently under Mitchell-Lama regulations; the Association provides a variety of services to help assure their continued health, mental acuity and quality of life. The project will provide partial reimbursement for our social services program for our 100+ residents: a licensed social work supervisor(consultant), 2 unpaid interns and overall supervision by Exec Director.

This unique program enriches the quality of life of people who are visually impaired, blind, and reading disabled by broadening access to and expanding JBI's free library of Audio, Braille and Large Print publications and by reaching out to and responding to the needs of the rapidly growing population of seniors suffering from age-related vision loss.

St. Martin's Tower NORC Supportive Services Program works to provide social services, educational and recreational activities, and healthcare services to adults 55 years and older who live in St. Martin's Tower, as well as their families, and the immediate surrounding community on the Upper West Side.

JASA Club 76 provides a wide variety of programs and services including physical fitness classes, health and wellness activities, drama workshop, and educational lectures of interest to the senior participants, creative art classes, parties, special events, trips, information and referrals for social services, case assistance and entitlement counseling.

The mission of the JASA 1199 NORC SSP is to enable seniors to remain in the homes and community ofr as long as they can with the support they need to be safe, healthy and series is dedicated to reaching students, while the other reaches a wider audience.

During 2013-14, the Medicare Rights Center will reach an estimated 6,500 older Manhattan residents and those with disabilities, their families, and the professionals serving them through counseling sessions, community-based presentations, and assistance enrolling into Medicare low-income programs. The coming year is critical for ensuring that older New Yorkers and those with disabilities can transition seamlessly from the new statewide health insurance exchange to Medicare and navigate new managed long-term care plans.

Crisis Intervention Social Workers provide case assistance to low-income seniors living on fixed incomes, the working poor, the near poor, and the recently unemployed. Their needs are often not addressed by government and other social service agencies because they hover just above the federal poverty threshold.

NFY's Manhattan Seniors Project provides a broad range of high quality civil legal services to seniors, including housing, benefits, health care, consumer, and abuse issues, prioritizing those at risk of losing their housing and independence. The project is also part of an assigned counsel program in partnership with the New York City Department for the Aging to defend seniors who are facing imminent eviction and who need both legal and social work help to resolve their housing problem.

The Cluster Care Project delivers affordable and efficient health and home care services to under-served elderly residents of Morningside Gardens in West Harlem who suffer from disabling health and/or mental health impairments. The principle of Cluster Care is that the aide, rather than being assigned to one person at a time, is assigned to on task at a time.

Perform! Is a live musical theater performance series held at the Museum of the City of New York each spring and fall in our 250-seat auditorium. Perform! Provides an important service for Manhattan communities-especially Manhattan's seniors-by offering a high level of entertainment for a low price.

competitive, global job market. It provides the support and opportunity needed to become successful workers and offers concrete skills and strategies to help women move into better paying careers.

The Himan Brown Senior Program has enriched the lives of countless seniors by providing a variety of activities and classes that keep people's minds and bodies engaged and active. The program runs all day Monday through Friday with 65+ classes each week, including, for example: Ceramics, Painting and Drawing, Memoir Writing, Dance, Men's Retirement Rap Group, Music, World Events, Foreign Language, Fitness, Senior Adult Chours, and Necessary Conversation in Later Life.

We are seeking renewed support for the East Harlem Dinner Project, which supplies the 400 homebound seniors in our Meal on Wheels Program with a supplemental sandwich in their daily delivery.

In 2011, United Cerebral Palsy of New York City (UCP of NYC) developed HealthLink, a series of field tested curricula which to date has educated over 1,000 health care professionals and students about the unique and complex health care needs of individuals with developmental, intellectual and physical disabilities and the medically frail. With a grant from the Manhattan Borough President's Office, UCP of NYC intends to utilize our HealthLink curricula.

UJC operated two senior centers at Blalystoker Place and Lillian Wald Senior Center. Together the two centers average daily enrollments of 200 people. Five days a week, a hot, kosher and nutritious meal is served to everyone. Additionally, another 160 frail homebound elderly have a meal delivered to their home.

Citizen Schools partners with middle schools to extend the learning day for low-income students in Harlem. We mobilize a second shift of afternoon educators, who provide academic support, leadership development, college awareness and access, and exposure to diverse careers through apprenticeships.

University Settlement operates an extensive and dynamic Older Adults Program. The core of the program is our full-service Senior Center, which has served older adults living in the Lower East Side, Chinatown and adjacent neighborhoods since 1971. It is a lively and active community space, and approximately 150 seniors a day, out of 837 active members, take advantage of the many resources we offer.

No

University Settlement, the Visiting Nurse Service of New York (VNSNY) and the Tenant Board of Confucius Plaza have established a special collaboration to increase the resources available to the large volume of vulnerable senior living in Manhattan's Chinatown, where there is a high incidence of poverty, isolation and risk for negative health, housing and other outcomes among Chinese immigrant seniors.

No

The Protecting Senior NYCHA Tenants program focuses on preserving the quality of life of elderly tenants in several Lower East Side NYCHA developments that are part of NYCHA's infill program. CDP and GOLES, and LES-based community organization, are working with tenants in these developments to ensure that they are aware of their rights, and to make sure that NYCHA's infill plans do not negatively impact tenants; quality of life and access to public recreation space.

Yes

VISIONS Center on Aging is the first city-funded center for older adults who are blind in New York City. The center features accessible programs including presentations, exercise, arts, computer training, photography, social services, and a library and radio station. Information is produced in Braille, large print, by email and on audiotapes.

No

Visiting Neighbors provides vital support services to frail seniors who cannot afford to pay privately for care, but who are just above eligibility levels for Medicaid-funded services. The main services VN provides are friendly visiting, providing relieve to seniors isolation and loneliness which often contribute to illness, depression and accidents. We also do escorts to medical appointments, health advocacy, referrals, help with errands in-home safety checks, telephone reassurance and emergency preparedness.

New York Theatre Ballet's Ballet School NY offers after-school dace classes in its Children's Division for 150 students each year. During the coming year, 25 or more of the children will attend on LIFT scholarships. They are provided with class attire and costumes; trasportaion as needed for them and escorting adults; tutoring; mentoring; books; and clothing. No

Initiated in 1989, Apple Seed is an interdisciplinary program currently serving 434 very low-income students at 5 elementary schools in West, Central, and East Harlem. Typically, our instructors provide 10 weekly, 60-minute sessions during school hours. Some schools, however, request as much as 30 weekly sessions; others prefer us to conduct an on-site, after-school program. Yes

Live in Concert! Is LOS's community engagement program that offers accessibility to members of the New York City community who would otherwise have little or no contact with classical music. The initiative provides opportunities for underserved students as well as their families, to attend weekday open dress rehearsals and weekend performances of Happy Concerts and Lolli-Pops concerts without charge. Yes

Gospel for Teens (GFT) is a 24 week music education program, transpiring over the course of two semesters. There are three classes 1) Freshman, 2) Adadvanced, and 3) Performing Before Live Audiences (PBLA)-the official Gospel for Teens Choir. At the end of each semester, all classes have a culminating mantiee and evening performance at the 520-seat Dempsey Theater. Yes

New York City Theater For All provides free and low-cost tickets to school children in grades pre-K through Third for The Paper Bag Players school time performances in all five boroughs. The Net Gain program currently serves 13 Manhattan public high schools, all of which lack their own gym facilities and are unable to provide after-school athletics to their students.

Urban Dove provides free court time to these schools so that they may join the Department of Education's Public School Athletic League (PSAL) and compete in a varsity basketball season.

Page to stage programs work with K-8 and fosters self-confidence, creative independence, and artistic growth by encouraging students to unearth their authentic voices. We teach practical, hands-on skills in the theatrical arts such as playwriting, producing, acting, and design led by professional teaching artists.

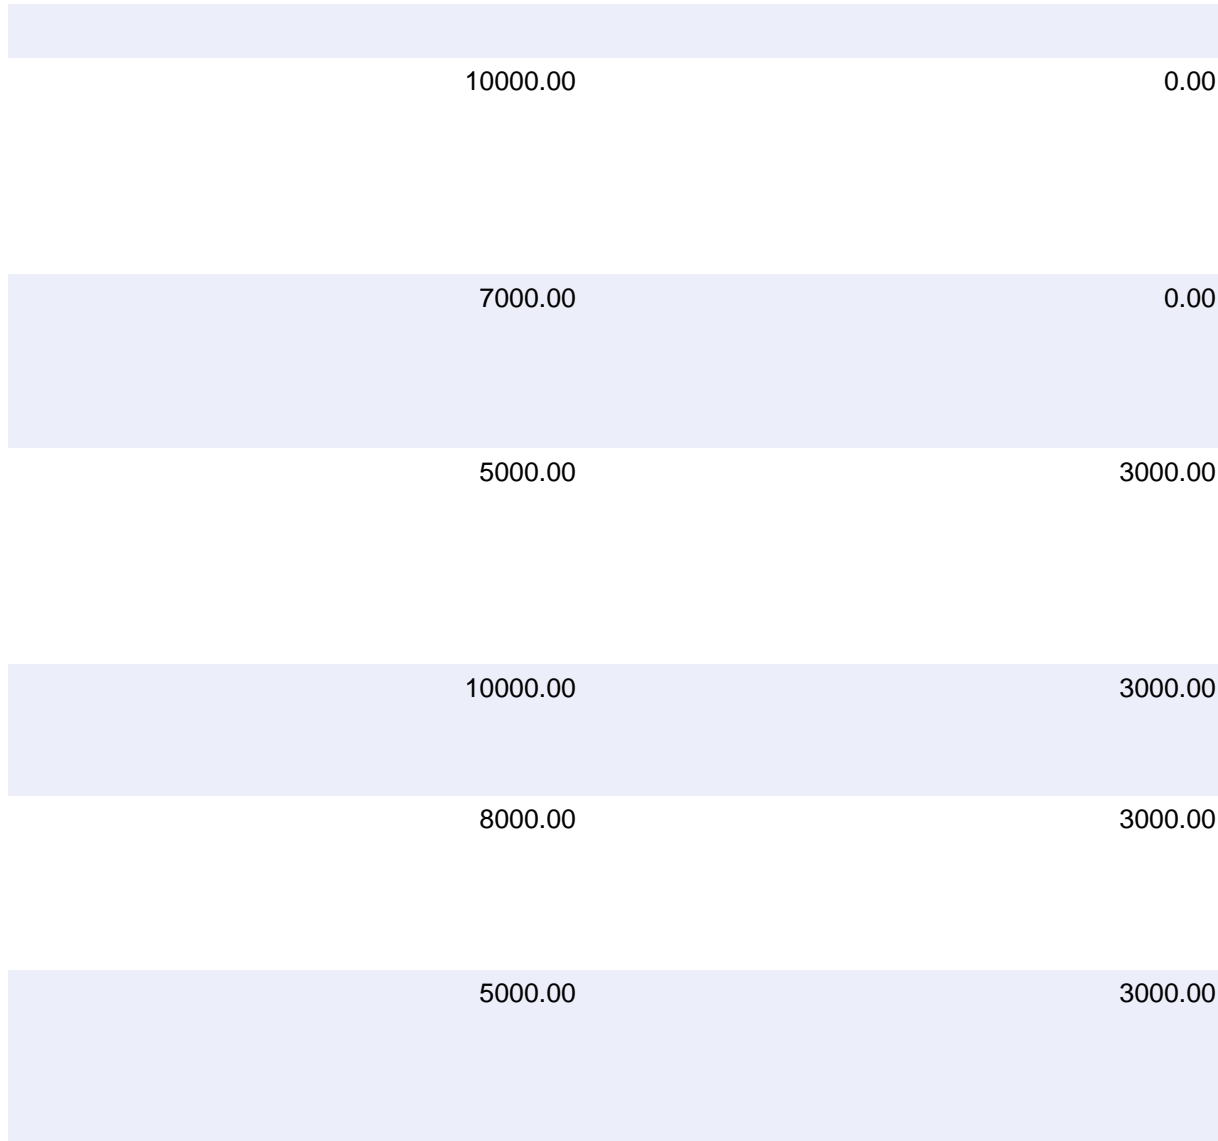

WISE Institute is a unique educational program that is integrated into the curriculum at the High School of Economics and Finance. The institute offers 100+ seminars delivered by 250+ volunteers from the private, independent and government sectors. Students receive 32 hours of credit-bearing seminar instruction over four 8-week modules per academic year.

YPC provides in-school and after-school choral instruction and performance opportunities to a wide range of New York City children and teenagers from all five boroughs, including those with little or no access to music education in their own public schools.

Hibakusha Stories, an initiative of Youth Arts New York, will be conducting 5 days of interactive workshops in New York City in mid-October, 2013, and 8 days of workshops in early May, 2014, in which survivors of the atomic bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, known as hibakusha, will tell their stories to students in local high schools and universities.

Youth Pride Chorus is one of the few LGBTQ youth choruses and stands as a premier program for youth empowerment. YPC singers learn music literacy, and advance singers receive individual voice instruction. The program also addresses youth's developmental needs.
